YourEncore Launches Quality Practice Area

New Service Provides Quality Assurance Rapid Response Teams

INDIANAPOLIS – (August 12, 2008) – YourEncore (<http://www.youencore.com>), an organization that helps companies accelerate innovation by connecting them with retired and veteran scientists and engineers to leverage their expertise, today announced the development of a new service area, YourEncore Quality. Made up of a rapid response team of quality assurance professionals, YourEncore Quality will provide top-notch quality services to companies around the globe.

YourEncore quality experts all have extensive experience in the complex quality compliance process. This first-hand insight is invaluable, as it enables them to dive-in with virtually no ramp-up time to help companies work through their challenges quickly, efficiently and most importantly, accurately.

The YourEncore Quality team offers ongoing counsel for companies interested in overall support and guidance for improving their quality systems and practices, as well as more specific, short-term services such as vendor qualification and auditing. Quality support is offered in the areas of drug, device and food research and development, manufacturing and commercialization. The team also will apply its expertise in risk management, regulatory compliance training, and regulatory inspection consultation to help companies assess, prioritize and mitigate regulatory and corporate risks.
