YourEncore is Recruiting Highly Skilled Experts in the Minneapolis and St. Paul Area

YourEncore is looking for retired and recently-separated scientists and engineers in the medical device, chemical and food industries to partner with member companies

MINNEAPOLIS (Nov. 19, 2010) – YourEncore, an organization that manages a network of retired and recently-separated scientists, engineers and product development experts interested in staying professionally active, is looking for specialists in the Minneapolis and St. Paul areas.

YourEncore matches highly skilled experts with member companies to participate on or manage projects in a variety of technical fields. As more baby boomers retire from the workforce, Minneapolis area companies are in need of specialized experts to work in highly challenging environments. Currently, YourEncore is recruiting retired and recently-separated professionals in the medical device, chemical and food industries for potential short-term opportunities with top corporate innovators such as General Mills, Medtronic and The Schwan Food Company.

Experts can learn more about YourEncore at a networking event from 5 to 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 9 at the General Mills corporate headquarters. The informational reception is free and light appetizers and non-alcoholic beverages will be served.

Please RSVP for the event at www.yourencoremn.eventbrite.com
